

SHOT AND FORCED OUT OF HIS HOME : JOIN NASU'S CALL TO END ENFORCED EVICTIONS

Nasu Abdulaziz used to live in a village called Otodo Gbame in the city of Lagos in Nigeria. Otodo Gbame is an informal settlement, but it has always been his home.

The men first came when Nasu was twenty-one - they arrived with guns and bulldozers at night without warning. Acting on the orders of the government, these men set upon the homes of this century-old community, crushing and burning down houses, shooting families and destroying livelihoods.

The men came back again and again. Once, Nasu was shot in the arm and he barely survived. Another time, when the men returned they fired shots and used tear gas to force residents out of their homes. The panicked residents fled – some drowned in the nearby lagoon trying to flee the violence. It is believed that nine people were killed, fifteen are still missing.

In total, 30,000 people have been evicted. Many have been forced to live in canoes, under bridges, or with other people in packed conditions. Nasu is part of the Nigerian Slum/ Informal Settlement Federation, a mass movement of people who won't rest until they secure their right to a home.

Sign the petition and demand an investigation into the forced eviction of Nasu's community, and to make sure that they are resettled and given full compensation.
